

229

10 December 1954

Professor Austin Robinson,
International Economic Association,
The Marshall Library,
Downing Street, Cambridge, England

My dear Robinson,

Thank you very much for yours of November 4, which because of absence I could not yet answer. Though I am somewhat hesitant to visit large congresses, I feel I cannot refuse to accept your very kind invitation which I certainly consider to be an honour to me. In principle, therefore, I accept and I am looking forward to getting further information.

Yours very sincerely,

10 December 1954

22

Professor Austin Robinson,
International Economic Association,
The Marshall Library,
Downing Street, Cambridge, England

My dear Robinson,

Thank you very much for yours of November 14, which because of absence I could not yet answer. Though I am somewhat hesitant to visit large congresses, I feel I cannot refuse to accept your very kind invitation which I certainly consider to be an honour to me. In principle, therefore, I accept and I am looking forward to getting further information.

Yours very sincerely,