Dear Mr Bingham,

Thank you for sending me with your letter of 28 January 1954 Prof. Harriss's book in which I read several chapters with great interest. I think it is a very attractive synthesis of theory and facts, written in a way to rouse the interest of young students. As a consequence of this way of writing the book is of course long, and this in a way constitutes a disadvantage to the more advanced students. Nevertheless they will also be struck by the many interesting remarks and opinions expressed by dr Harriss.

Yours very sincerely,
