Professor Robert H. Strotz,
Department of Economics,
Northwestern University,
Evanston, Illinois

Dear Professor Strotz,

It will be a great pleasure to see you with us. Personally I tried to make myself familiar with welfare economics for the last year or so, and it would be fine to have it discussed with you. I think you would like also to have discussions with several of my collaborators, may be especially those working in the field of the distribution of wealth and income. So far I have not yet any plans for 1955, but of course I will take my annual leave somewhere in July or August. I wonder whether you could start in Holland, and it goes without saying that since the Planning Bureau is never closed, there will always be people present here. I hope these few informations are helpful, and I am looking forward to see you here.

With best regards,
yours very sincerely,
