Sir Arthur Bowley,
Marley Hill,
Haslemere,
England.

Dear Sir Arthur,

It was a great satisfaction to the many friends you have among the Dutch staticians to learn that your name was on The Honor List this year.

While apologizing for being so late I hope you will accept my sincere and cordial gratulations. Every econometrian knows how much he owes to the many important investigations you made; investigations which the younger ones among us only gradually detect when digging in old volumes of statistical periodicals.

With all good personal wishes

yours very sincerely

Dear Sir,

It was a great satisfaction to me when I learned you have among the Dutch statistics to learn that your work on the factor had this year.

While contemplating for being so late I hope you will accept my sincere and cordial greetings. Every year I have been much in need of the many in other investigations concerning the factor. I am the younger ones, and I am grateful to you for the old volume of statistics periodicals.

With all good personal regards

Yours very sincerely
