

254

29 December 1954

Professor Brinley Thomas,
Department of Economics and Social Science,
University College,
Cathays Park,
Cardiff

Dear Professor Thomas,

Thank you very much for yours of December 23. Unfortunately my program is already rather crowded and it will not be therefore possible for me to accept your kind invitation. May I suggest that you ask my colleague Prof. Dr P.J. Verdoorn under whose responsibility some interesting calculations have been made on what we in the Netherlands consider to be our optimum rate of emigration. He also studied, as you may have seen, some other problems of European integration in a quantitative way and reported on it before the Westminster conference one or two years ago. I can recommend him warmly.

Yours very sincerely,

29 December 1954

Professor Brinley Thomas,
Department of Economics and Social Sciences,
University College,
Cathays Park,
Cardiff

Dear Professor Thomas,

Thank you very much for yours of December 25. Unfortunately my program is already rather crowded and it will not be therefore possible for me to accept your kind invitation. May I suggest that you ask my colleague Prof. Dr P. J. Verboorn under whose responsibility some interesting calculations have been made on what we in the Netherlands consider to be our optimum rate of emigration. He also attended, as you may have seen, some other problems of European integration in a quantitative way and reported on it before the Westminster conference one or two years ago. I can recommend him warmly.

Yours very sincerely,